Biography

A skilled litigator and advisor, Neal focuses his practice on serving businesses and other professionals, including attorneys and accountants. Holding both an M.B.A. in finance from the Indiana University Kelley School of Business and a J.D. from the Indiana University Maurer School of Law, Neal is able to use his business insight as well as his legal skill and experience to solve clients' problems. He has advised clients in navigating complex challenges and has also represented clients before Indiana state trial courts, the Indiana Court of Appeals, the Indiana Supreme Court, numerous United States District Courts, and the United States Court of Appeals for both the Sixth and Seventh Circuits. When he is not practicing law, Neal enjoys studying languages (he is passable in French and German and working on Italian), weightlifting, and traveling to New York City and Europe with his wife, Jeanne.
